Woman Fined $500 and Must Serve Two Months For Dispensing Liquor

Sex Will Not Prevent Infliction of Penalty, Court Makes Known.

GROWING TOO NUMEROUS

"All Who Take the Chance Must Pay the Price, Regardless of Sex," Is Comment of Judge J. C. Work: District Attorney Begins Work.

Mrs. Anna Brezon of Fairhope, widow of Andy Brezon and the mother of 11 children, seven of whom are still at home, was sentenced in court in Uniontown this morning by J. C. Work, following her plea of guilty, to the illegal sale of intoxicating liquor, to pay a fine of $500 and costs and serve nine months in jail. If the fine and costs are paid the jail sentence will be cut to two months.

The court said too many women in the county were conducting stores and violating the liquor laws, expecting to get immunity because of their sex.

"All those who take the chance will pay the price regardless of their sex," Judge Work said.

Mrs. Brezon was selling Jamaica ginger.

The case was the first in the administration of District Attorney Brown. A general check is being made on all cases pending in an effort to get matters cleaned up and give the new official a clean slate.

General Butler Orders Police to Shoot Bandits

By United Press.

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 8.—"Put some bandit notches in your guns," Brigadier General Smedley Butler, new director of public safety, ordered policemen of Philadelphia today. "Clean up the cesspools. Don't waste time howling out people who make left-hand turns. Catch the bandits. Never mind chasing a couple of blocks after automobiles without tail lights. Keep the bandits from robbing mail wagons," the new commander of the police bureau told his men as a 48-hour drive began to clean up vice and crime.

Eight armored motor cars equipped with rifles were ordered by the director. The machines, capable of making 70 miles an hour, will be ready for bandit chasing by Monday.

First reports of the campaign reached city hall today. A number of dives in the tenderloin district were closed tight.

Diphtheria Causes Death of Wealthy Accident Farmer

Diphtheria caused the death Saturday of Clark Rush, 59 years old, well-to-do farmer of near Accident, Md., and uncle of Mrs. M. E. Frazee of Poplar Grove, according to a message received by Mrs. Frazee. No other details were given.

Mr. Rush is survived by his wife and three children: Asa, assistant cashier of the bank at Friendsville, Md.; James, at home, and Mrs. Cora Tarney, living near the home. There also are the following brothers and sisters: Martin and Wesley Rush, on farms nearby; Milton on the old family homestead near Friendsville, and Mrs. Alice Umbel of Markleysburg.

Women Must Pay Tax or Go to Jail

By United Press.

ALTOONA, Jan. 8.—The Fidelity & Casualty Insurance Company, bondsman for former City Treasurer Smith, was last night held responsible for $12,000 uncollected school taxes.

It developed that nearly all these unpaid taxes are owned by women who refuse to pay a personal tax. The insurance company has warned that if the women do not pay they will have to go to jail.

Turkey Doubles in Price, Then Some

By United Press.

LITTLE FERRY, N. J., Jan. 8.—Mrs. Otto Schultz was stuffing a turkey for which she had paid 46 cents a pound.

"I sold this turkey for 23 cents a pound. (Signed) William Shane, Manvel, N. D.," a note inside the bird said.

Horses Run Away.

Frightened by the noise of the fire truck this morning the two horses of the I. N. Hagan Company standing near Brimstone corner dashed madly up Pittsburg street and sideswiped a passing machine. The driver, running after the runaways, managed to stop them at Fairview avenue.

NEW ROAD BODY WILL HOLD RALLY WEDNESDAY NIGHT

Senator Brown, Representative Henderson and Others to Speak at Banquet at Dawson Park.

Tomorrow evening at 7:30 o'clock the first big meeting of the Dawson, Tyrone and Scottdale Good Roads Association will be held at the Dawson Driving Park. An oyster supper will be served at that hour, following which there will be a meeting of the organization. All members are expected to attend and those who have not enrolled but who are desirous of so-doing are invited.

Among those who will be present and who will speak briefly are State Senator Guy W. Brown, Representative Joseph B. Henderson, the latter of this city, County Commissioners Hibbs, Langley and McClelland.

There will be a big delegation from Scottdale and Everson headed by John R. Byrne.

It is anticipated getting some action on the Dawson to Scottdale road and boosters of the highway expect to see it under way by spring.

Parole Officer Handles 678 Cases During the Year

The report of Charles W. Baer, county parole officer, submitted to court in Uniontown today, shows that during 1923 fines and costs collected into the fund totaled $31,293.36. There was a total of $2,975.93 brought forward from the preceding year, making a total of $34,269.93. Disbursements were $30,208.22.

During the year 678 cases were handled. There were 443 paroles of which number 280 were liquor violation cases. Next to liquor paroles those on domestic relations were highest. Persons subject to court orders on desertion and non-support charges numbered 194. Other cases on parole included 70 from the juvenile court. Of this number 60 were male and 10 female. Incorrigibility topped the list with 25 and larceny was next with 14.

Twenty-six boys and girls were sent to Morganza during 1923. One was sent to the Boys' Industrial Home at Oakdale, two to the George Junior Republic Home, one man was paroled on a manslaughter charge, and 17 were placed on parole for operating gambling devices.

Fire Damages Machine Shop Office $500

Fire this morning damaged the attic of the office of the Connellsville Machine, Foundry & Steel Castings Company in the North End. It was estimated that about $500 would cover the loss.

The alarm this morning was the eighth since the first of the year, two occurring last night, one almost after the other.

It was necessary to use the big hose to extinguish this morning's flames. The first got between the plaster and the roof, following along the hollow passage to the top of the building. Both trucks responded and the firemen made quick work of extinguishing the blaze once they got in a position to combat it.

Last night both alarms were for chimney fires. One was at the home of Alva Moon on the South Side and the other was at the office of the Daily News. No damage resulted from either.

Although alarms have been numerous during the first eight days of 1924 the department has been successful in keeping the loss at a low figure. The blaze this morning is the first serious one of the month.

Mine Inspectors Furloughed for Lack of Funds

HARRISBURG, Jan. 8.—Steps have been taken to effect a temporary layoff of 30 bituminous and 22 anthracite mine inspectors for a month each during 1924 to bring expenditures for inspection service within the appropriation department, Secretary Walsh said that two or three inspectors will be given leaves of absence each month.

Recent reports show 50,850 mine accidents last year as compared to 36,613 in 1922. Fatalities last year totaled 1,017, against 809 in 1922. Secretary Walsh said each inspector must take at least a month's furlough without pay and that approximately $20,800 will be saved by the department on its budget allowance.

Meeting of Advisory Board.

FRANK GANOE NEW CHIEF OF POLICE FOR SCOTTDALE

Succeeds Frank McCuddon, Who Is Elected to Same Post at Everson.

GUS HOFFMAN NEW MAN

J. E. Tintsman Is Elected President of Council at Scottdale for Fourth Term; George Bumbrey Is Chosen President of Everson Council.

Special to The Courier.

SCOTTDALE, Jan. 8.—Frank Ganoe, patrolman, was last night elected chief of police of Scottdale, succeeding Frank McCuddon who had served for nearly 13 years and whose long term was endorsement of his efficiency as an officer. Learning in advance that he probably would fall of the required number of votes, McCuddon had made application for the office of chief at Everson, to which he was elected at the meeting of council Monday evening.

Reuben Gauss was re-elected patrolman. An addition to the force is Gus Hoffman, who was formerly coal and iron policeman at Hecla and later was with the Pennsylvania Railroad Company as an officer.

J. E. Tintsman was elected president of council for the fourth term. Frank Newcomer was re-elected secretary, Harry Laughrey, treasurer, and F. F. Folk, solicitor. W. B. Barnhart was chosen street commissioner and engineer; J. S. Kuhns, weighmaster.

Appointment of committees was deferred.

Burgess Walter Shaffer presided at the meeting of council. R. M. Young, A. J. Tannehill and J. L. Reynolds retired as members and in their places H. B. Hartman, Robert Eridel and Roy Martz were sworn in.

At the reorganization of Everson Council George Bumbrey was elected president; Robert Jones, secretary, and John R. Byrne, treasurer.

Eight-Story Bank For Uniontown

Construction of an eight-story banking house and office building was authorized Monday by the directors of the Citizens Title & Trust Company of Uniontown.

The structure will rise on the site of that now occupied by the bank.

Greensburg Store Damaged.

GREENSBURG, Jan. 8.—Fire today seriously damaged the E. A. Wineman furniture store at Second street and Maple avenue. The loss is expected to be heavy because Wineman only a few weeks ago had the interior of the store renovated and re-furnished.

Woman's Hip Broken.

Mrs. Sarah Stutzman, 74 years old, of Somerset is in the Community Hospital at that place, suffering from a fracture of the hip which she sustained in a fall.

Springer Todd Remains Steward At County Home

With no new members on the county poor board there were but few changes when the board met Monday for the reorganization. Dr. Jacob S. Hackney was elected physician and Attorney N. W. Rosenberg, solicitor for the board. Dr. Hackney succeeds Dr. S. A. Baltz, who was elected coroner and Mr. Rosenberg succeeds Attorney Charles L. Davidson.

There was practically no change in the remainder of the staff which is as follows: Steward, T. Springer Todd; matron, Mrs. Jennie S. Todd; bookkeeper, William A. Stormell; assistant matron and nurse, Frances Flenniken; nurse at sanitarium, Mary E. Stoner; cook at sanitarium, Mabel Blake; assistant cook, Celia Smith; waitress, Mabel Warrick; chambermaid, Victoria Warrick; engineer, Robert Springer; farmer, Newton T. Blake; assistant farmer, James Bell, and coal digger, Carr Barnes.

Prior to the meeting, members of the board and county officials were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Todd at a delicious chicken dinner.

William M. Wilson, who was elected jail warden, formerly lived at Connellsburg, coming to Uniontown to take up his duties as deputy sheriff under Sheriff M. A. Kiefer. He is the father of Elsie Wilson, the first woman deputy coroner in the county and at present stenographer for Superintendent of Schools J. S. Carroll.

Hugh A. Gorley, the retiring warden, has held the office for two terms and was deputy warden under E. Newton Newcomer, serving 12 years in all. During his administration the jail has undergone a transformation and today is a model institution in the state both in sanitation and morale. The old wooden range has been replaced by a steel structure and the prison has been made 100 per cent free of all vermin. It has a perfect lighting, heating and ventilating system and three wholesome meals are served daily at a cost of 30 cents per day for each prisoner. When Mr. Gorley first assumed charge the inmates numbered between 40 and 100 and now there are seldom less than 170 prisoners in the jail at a time.

Immediately upon taking charge of his office, Sheriff John Q. Adams announced that all appointments as deputy sheriffs in the county had been revoked and it would be necessary for applicants to call at the office and take the oath again if they wished to continue and it was satisfactory to the sheriff.

Outside of the vacancy to be filled by the election of William Wilson, as warden of the county jail, the staff in the sheriff's office remains unchanged. William McClelland is chief deputy, Edward Brady, deputy, Steve Figus, clerk, and Attorney W. Frank Lane, solicitor.

* * *

The prison board made the following appointments:

Superintendent of courthouse—James Collins.

Assistant superintendent of building—D. C. Campbell.

Boiler house engineers—S. H. Harrold, I. T. Myers and James Campbell.

Telephone operators—Nellie Thomas and Minerva Ruffer.

Janitors—Harry Trimble and Fred Robinson.

Janitress—Daisy Cullison, Maggie Hilling and Rebecca Gidley.

BOND ISSUE SEEMS SOLUTION OF CITY'S PROGRAM OF NEEDS

COSTLY STREET SCHEME

Where Carnegie Library's Budget of $10,000 Shall Come From Also Looms Up to Worry Solons; Budget for 1924 Well Above That of 1923.

Financing of city improvements has reached the stage where, in the belief of members of Council, the only course open is the flotation of a bond issue. Fifty thousand dollars was suggested at a meeting of the solons Monday night at which time business begun at the reorganization session of the morning was resumed.

Some of the items listed as necessary are:

New garbage plant, expense of which will be $20,000 or more

Street truck and sweeper estimated cost $10,000.

Pumping engine for use at fires on the higher levels where city water pressure is inadequate, and which will cost $12,000.

Police call system, demanded by mayor, $6,000.

Action was deferred until next Monday night. Before the budget is completed it will be necessary for Council to do something toward taking care of the above extraordinary expenses.

Available revenues, estimated for 1924 are around $106,000. The 1923 budget totaled $104,946, of which there remains about $4,000 unexpended. The budget estimates now are well above those of last year.

Numerous street improvement projects are on the calendar for the year. Some of them have long been promised, one being the grading of Gibson avenue. Members pledged themselves last summer to do something "next spring." Other projects in hand are: Resurfacing of Pittsburg street from Fairview avenue to Lincoln Pittsburg street from Green street to Newmyer avenue; Cottage avenue from Crawford to Fairview; the paving of Snyder street and Jefferson street.

Superintendent B. L. Berg estimated the cost of these projects at around $10,000

Just how the Carnegie Free Library is to fare in the distribution of funds has not been determined. Unless other items in the budget can be reduced it was said Council will not be able to appropriate more than $7,000 The Library's budget is $10,000.

Communications urging better support of the Library were received from the Kiwanis Club, the Rotary Club, the American Legion, the Knights of Columbus, the Elks, the Moose and the Westmoreland Grocery Company. That the institution should have all that is asked for it is admitted, but the question before Council is where to get it.

OFFICERS BEGIN SEARCH FOR WOMAN HELD BY BANDITS

By United Press.

PEKIN, China, Jan. 8.—Major John Magruder and Captain Woodrow Woodbridge proceeded today to Howan province to seek the whereabouts of Julia Kilen, woman captive of Chinese bandits, who has disappeared. When last seen Mrs. Kilen was mounted on a white horse, towering high above the squat figures of the bandits who swarmed about her on foot as they led her away over the hills. The woman was captured when bandits raided a mission and shot several foreigners, imprisoning others.

Nothing has been heard from the besieged city of Batang, near the Thibet frontier, where foreigners, including 10 Americans are reported surrounded by brigands. News traveled slowly from the Sze Shuan province, where communications are carried by junks down the river.

Raymond Garlick Truant Officer

Raymond Garlick was elected truant officer of the district at the regular meeting of the South Connellsville School Board last night. An order for coal at 15½ cents per bushel was placed with the Walnut Hill Coal Company. In addition to this business of a routine nature was transacted.

Beehive Has Advantage Of Lower Transportation Costs to Eastern Penna.

Making It Difficult for Swedeland By-Product Plant to Meet Competition.

A DIFFERENT RELATION

Alleged to Exist With Respect to Rates On Coal and Coke Moving from Beehive Districts of Western Penna. to Points in North and West.

The present joint rate on coke from the Connellsville and Lower Connellsville districts to Swedeland is $3.53 per ton and $3.33 from the Latrobe district, the latter having a 20 cents differential on eastern shipments. From experience of the Rainey-Wood Coke Company and other information it is stated that a minimum of 1.4 net tons of bituminous coal must be transported to its plant to yield one ton of coke. Upon this basis the accompanying table was prepared for the purpose of showing "the comparison between the burden of transportation charges falling upon complainant's coke under existing freight and charges on beehive coke in the markets at Swedeland and other eastern Pennsylvania points."

Under the established system of rates for the transportation of coal and coke from the Westmoreland and the Connellsville districts respectively, and of coke from Swedeland to the same points, it is pointed out that "the beehive coke industry is enabled to lay down and deliver its coke in all points in eastern Pennsylvania at charges which vary from $1.05 to $2.82 per net ton less than the transportation charges complainant must bear; and even that immediately adjoining complainant's plant, the beehive industry has the benefit of 17 cents per net ton under the transportation charges complainant must bear for the coal movement alone, without inclusion of charges for local coal movement alone."

It is claimed, therefore, that "the adverse effect of this rate structure upon the complainant is greater and its burden is much heavier in meeting the competition of beehive coke when the latter is shipped to these same markets from the Latrobe District instead of the Connellsville District,' because of the 20-cent differential in favor of the Latrobe District.

Rates Made Without Reference to By-Product Coke.

"At the time respondent's system of rates on bituminous coal and coke from western Pennsylvania to points in eastern Pennsylvania, were initiated and the relation which then became introduced between freight rates on coal and beehive coke, whether by design or hap-hazard, was entirely without reference to by-product coke production or to the effect such relation might have upon the latter industry and its success and growth. This lack of consideration to by-product coke was continued through all the adjustments and changes made to date in these rates, which have consisted merely of changes in the interest of certain localities or in horizontal increases with one horizontal decrease effective July 1, 1922.

"The several general horizontal increases made in rates on both bituminous coal and by-product coke to and in eastern Pennsylvania, as compared with the increased transportation charges on beehive coke laid down at the same destinations has greatly increased the spread between the freight that must be paid by

Is Estimate of United States Geological Survey, An Increase of 29 Per Cent Over 1922.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 8.—The weekly report of the United States Geological Survey states that the universal observance of Christmas as a holiday at the soft coal mines and the cessation of work at many mines on the day before and after Christmas resulted in a sharp decline in production that brought the total output down to 6,654,000 net tons in the closing week of 1923. This was a decrease of 3,959,000 tons, or 36.6 per cent, and was the lowest figure recorded during the year. On the last three days of the week, however, production recovered to about the same level as in the preceding week.

The total of the weekly estimates of soft coal production, including an allowance for production on the last day of the year, indicates that the total output in 1923 was approximately 545,300,000 tons. As compared with 1922, this was an increase of more than 29 per cent. In only three years—1920, 1918 and 1917—has production exceeded that of 1923. In fact it is quite possible that when these estimates based on the weekly records of coal loaded are replaced by the final reports from the mines themselves, it will be found that production in 1923 exceeded 1917.

During the preceding five years the annual production was as follows in net tons: 1918, 579,386,000; 1919, 465,860,000; 1920, 568,667,000; 1921, 415,922,000; 1922, 422,268,000.

The last week of December witnessed a sharp decline in the production of coke, caused largely by the observance of the Christmas holiday. The total output is estimated at 221,000 net tons, a decrease of 35,000 tons, or 37 per cent. The average daily rate of production increased slightly. The holiday appears to have been celebrated in all the eastern districts, but not in the districts west of the Mississippi.

Production in the Connellsville region, according to The Courier, totaled 165,530 tons, against 195,420 tons in the week preceding.

The cumulative production of beehive coke during 1923 to December 29 stood at 17,910,000 tons, as compared with 19,550,000 tons in 1919, 20,825,000 tons in 1920, 5,506,000 tons in 1921 and 8,833,000 tons in 1922.

Thus it is seen that the beehive coke industry in 1923 recovered well from the depression of 1921 and the strike of 1922, but failed to equal the record of the active years, 1919 and 1920. In comparison with the average of the years, 1919-1922, 1923 stands 33 per cent ahead.

Production by states during week of December 29, as compared with the corresponding week in 1922, was as follows:

	1923	1922
Pennsylvania and Ohio	180,000	207,000
West Virginia	12,000	16,000
Alabama, Kentucky, Tennessee and Georgia	13,000	18,000
Virginia	6,000	9,000
Colorado and New Mexico	6,000	6,000
Washington and Utah	4,000	4,000
U. S. Total	221,000	260,000

State Supreme Court Sustains Snyder Will

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 8. — The State Supreme Court has handed down a decision affirming a decree of the Orphans' Court of Allegheny county, which upheld the will of William Penn Snyder, steel magnate, against efforts to have it set aside.

Those efforts were made principally by Mrs. Mary Black Snyder Drew, daughter of the decedent, who maintained her father at the time of drawing up the will was not of testamentary capacity.

Stiffer Policy In Revoking Auto Drivers Licenses

HARRISBURG, Jan. 8.—Evidence of the new policy of the State Highway Department in revoking or suspending licenses for offenses which have hitherto not appeared in the lists turned up today in Secretary Paul D. Wright's first announcement for 1924. Last year over 500 licenses were revoked and this year starts off with 15, 12 for running cars while drunk, one for having permitted another person who was drunk to run the car, one for physical incapacity generally and one for habitual violations of the motor code.

The secretary made these suspensions, most of them for the first time on such offenses. Involved in too many accidents, arrested for violation of motor code and held for court, pending outcome; not a proper person to run a car in view of reckless driving; physically and mentally unqualified and driving recklessly over grade crossing.

Five persons were blacklisted for running cars while drunk and six for running cars without consent of owner. They cannot get licenses or cards this year.

Famous Old Recipe for Cough Syrup

Easily and cheaply made at home. But it beats them all for quick results.

Thousands of housewives have found that they can save two-thirds of the money usually spent for cough preparations, by using the well-known old recipe for making cough syrup at home. It is simple and cheap but it has no equal for prompt results. It takes right hold of a cough and gives immediate relief, usually stopping an ordinary cough in 24 hours or less.

Get 2½ ounces of Pinex from any druggist, pour it into a pint bottle and add plain granulated sugar syrup to make a full pint. If you prefer, use clarified molasses, honey, or corn syrup, instead of sugar syrup. Either way, it tastes good, keeps perfectly, and lasts a family a long time.

It's truly astonishing how quickly it acts, penetrating through every air passage of the throat and lungs—loosens and raises the phlegm, soothes and heals the membranes, and gradually but surely the annoying throat tickle and dreaded cough disappear entirely. Nothing better for bronchitis, spasmodic croup, hoarseness or bronchial asthma.

Pinex is a special and highly concentrated compound of genuine Norway pine extract, known the world over for its healing effect on the membranes.

Avoid disappointment by asking your druggist for "2½ ounces of Pinex" with full directions and don't accept anything else. Guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or money promptly refunded. The Pinex Co., Ft. Wayne, Ind.

Heater Company Names Officers

The first annual meeting of the Down Draft Heater Company was held last evening at the plant on North First street, West Side, at which the following officers were elected: President, Carl E. Freshley; vice-president, Ross S. Matthews, secretary and treasurer, Edward J. Freshley.

It was decided to pay a dividend of eight per cent on all stock record January 1, 1924.

The company aims to increase the output to 1,000 heaters a year.

To Erect New Parsonage.

The trustees of the First Methodist Protestant Church purchased a lot on the corner of East Crawford avenue and South Cottage avenue and as soon as plans are drawn up and the weather permits work will be commenced on the construction of a modern parsonage. The lot was purchased from Mrs. Alice George and fronts 80 feet on Crawford avenue and 160 feet on Cottage avenue.

AN OPEN LETTER TO WOMEN

Tells of Mrs. Vogel's Terrible Suffering and How She Was Restored to Health by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Detroit, Michigan. — "My troubles were severe pains in my back and terrible bearing-down pains in my right side, also headaches and sleepless nights. I first began having troubles when I was 15, and they have increased as I grow older. A little booklet was left at my door, and I read what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done for women and decided to try it. After the first week I could go to sleep every night and I stopped having that nervous feeling and got a better appetite. The doctor had always said that an operation was the only thing that would help me, but I never had any faith in an operation. Since the Vegetable Compound has started helping me I do not suffer the severe pains, feel stronger, and am able to do my own work. I am more than glad to tell my friends that it helps where other medicines have failed."—Mrs. Gus Vogel, 6608 Pelouze Street, Detroit, Michigan.

CHIEF M'CUDDEN LOCATES BIG LOT STOLEN SWEETS

Moved From Place to Place in Scheme to Collect Fire Insurance, Claim.

HOLDER DENIES GUILT

Special to The Courier

SCOTTDALE, Jan. 8.—After reading of a find at Greensburg of possibly $5,000 worth of goods seized by J. W. Ferguson, acting as representative of the Credit Men's Adjustment Bureau, and of how these goods had been taken taken from the confectionery at 801 Linden street, East Pittsburg, and the place then set on fire to collect insurance for the stock moved out and of a consignment of these goods being sent to Scottdale, addressed to John Popolotis, Chief of Police Frank McCudden looked around some to find any trace of the goods. Going up the alley past a wareroom off Stoner street he saw barrels in the wareroom. McCudden went to the owner and questioned him as to who had the wareroom rented and on learning it was supposed to be vacant, he asked the owner to accompany him. They found eight barrels of sugar, three barrels filled with something that would be used around a confectionery, also six boxes of candied pineapple

McCudden became suspicious and, armed with a search warrant, went to the "candy kitchen" at Pittsburg street and Broadway and here found candies and fountain supplies totaling between $5,000 and $6,000. The proprietor of the candy kitchen, known around town as "Joe," was not arrested since he did not make any attempt to hide any of the goods and told McCudden if they were stolen he wanted them to go ahead and take them It was estimated that three trucks had been required to haul the stolen goods.

It is claimed that Peter Papadopolis, a former proprietor of a shoe shine shop in Broadway is at the back of the attempt to smuggle out the goods and then burn the building, attempting to collect insurance for the merchandise lost.

Skating Cap Is Ideal for Out-of-Doors Girls

These who indulge in winter sports will find the Canadian skating cap of cheviot yarn a comfort as well as a becoming and stylish headdress. During the war these caps were enthusiastically indorsed by fighting men, who wore them under their helmets or as sleeping caps. Knitted in cheviot, these caps are ideal for the out-of-doors girls. They can be knitted in one day and the directions are very easily followed.

Directions for Canadian skating cap: Knitted with four needles. Cast on 300 stitches, thirty-six on one needle, thirty-two on each of the other needles. Knit two, purl two for three inches. Knit plain for four inches. Knit nineteenth and twentieth stitches together on each needle. Knit one round plain. Knit eighteenth and nineteenth stitches together. Knit one round plain. Knit seventeenth and eighteenth stitches together. Knit one round plain. Decrease in this way until only twenty-five stitches remain. Run a thread through these and fasten securely.

Softly-Tinted Velvets.

Some of the softly-tinted velvets used in evening gowns remind one of the soft colorings in the figures on a Sevres vase. The shades are peach, lavender and almond green. Embroidered in garlands of blossoms and petals in light colorings, one can imagine their beauty.

Perfume Container.

A remarkable little perfume container, which looks suspiciously like a chic pocket flask, is in mauve enamel mounted in platinum. To make it appear altogether ingenious, it is graced by a little knot of roses and forget-me-nots.

CHAMBERLAIN'S COUGH REMEDY

No Narcotics

She gets relief from DR. CALDWELL'S SYRUP PEPSIN And so do the children

Some Families Are Never Ill

FORTUNATE are the children whose parents fully realize the seriousness of constipation. Hospital records prove that 75 per cent of all disease originates in bowel obstruction, or constipation. Young children cry because of it; school children are hampered in their studies; grown people are made 25 per cent less efficient; elderly people's blood pressure increases 28 per cent. Realizing this Mrs. Carrie Moss of 1714 Church st., Lynchburg Va., Mr. Louis C. Grahl of 1569 Winton ave., Lakewood, Ohio, and innumerable others, give a spoonful of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin at the first sign of constipation, and have no sickness among their children.

Largest Selling Laxative

Every up-to-date family medicine chest should contain a bottle of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, a compound of Egyptian senna with pepsin and palatable aromatics, a prescription written 30 years ago by Dr. W. B. Caldwell, who practiced medicine 47 years. You can buy a bottle in any store where medicines are sold, and the cost is less than a cent a dose. We guarantee that if you will give Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin to a child or for a few nights to an adult it will relieve any case of constipation no matter how chronic, or your money will be refunded

10 Million Bottles a Year

Use it once and you will never again take coal-tar drugs in candy form, calomel or salts. Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is a vegetable laxative free from opiates and narcotics. It can be safely given to infants, yet it effectively moves the bowels of adults. It acts gently; does not cramp or gripe. Keep it in the house and use it for any indication of bowel obstruction such as constipation, biliousness, torpid liver, dyspepsia, pimples and like skin eruptions. Give it early and it will break up a fever or a cold overnight. A spoonful proves it.

COUNTY DETECTIVE GETS SETTLEMENT IN ASSAULT CASE

SOMERSET, Jan. 8.—A settlement has been reached in the case of County Detective M. R. Leckemby, convicted of aggravated assault and battery at the September term of criminal court and sentenced by Judge John A. Berkey on the day before Christmas to pay a fine of $1,000 and serve six months in the Allegheny County Workhouse. This sentence was modified by the court on condition that the county detective pay the prosecutor, Joseph Vanelle, of Shaw mines, near Meyersdale, the sum of $1,000. Leckemby promptly paid the stipulated sum and the workhouse sentence was suspended, but the defendant was placed under parole for a period of three years.

According to testimony offered at the trial in September, County Detective Leckemby while in the act of raiding the Vanelle home shot and seriously wounded Vanelle, who will be a cripple for life. The Vanelle place had been suspected of harboring a moonshine still, it was alleged, and Leckemby, accompanied by Burgess Valentine Gress and Policeman Smith, both of Meyersdale, went to conduct the raid. Testimony at the trial showed that the officers did not possess a search warrant and while the county detective was looking through a window the glass was shattered, whereupon Leckemby opened fire and shot Vanelle.

CIVIL SERVICE TESTS REOPENED FOR VETERANS

WASHINGTON, Jan. 8—The Civil Service Commission has announced a change in favor of ex-service men in the regulations governing the reopening to the veterans of examinations which have been held and closed. The new regulations follow:

Until further notice, American citizens who served as soldiers, sailors, or marines in any of the allied military forces between August 1, 1914, and July 2, 1921, and those who served in the American forces between April 6, 1917, and July 2, 1921, will be allowed to enter any examination for which there is an existing register, provided application is made during military service or not later than one year after their honorable discharge from the Army, or termination of their active service in the Navy or Marine Corps. The names of all such persons who pass the examination will be entered upon the eligible register, but preference in appointment will be given to those only who submit evidence that they have been honorably discharged.

A soldier, sailor or marine who served between August 1, 1914, and July 2, 1921, and who by reason of confinement in a government hospital under treatment has been prevented from taking an examination for which there is an existing register may be admitted to such examination, provided he makes application within one year after discharge from the hospital.

BELLE VERNON SCHOOLS BOOST HARDING FUND

WASHINGTON, Jan 8—Fraternal, civic and otherorganizations of Pennsylvania are contributing in large number to the Harding Memorial Fund, according to a survey of contributions from that state at headquarters of the Harding Memorial Association here.

With the extension of the campaign to March 1, leaders in the national movement express confidence that when the final returns are in, Pennsylvania will prove to be among the leading states. To date, only scattered reports have been received direct at headquarters but they are indicative of the scope of the general response.

Contributions may be made to the fund, either through local banks or other receiving agencies, or may be sent direct to headquarters, 1424 F Street, Northwest, Washington, D. C. Many individual contributions came in as a direct result of the donors having heard President Coolidge's eulogy of President Harding by radio

Among the organizations whose contributions have been received here are:

Woman's Relief Corps, Johnstown; North Belle Vernon School District, Belle Vernon; Kiwanis Club, Clarion; Rotary Club, Johnstown

For More than 32 Years Aaron's Has Been Fayette's Foremost Homefurnisher!

TO have served Fayette County's community of Homemakers for nearly a third of a century—with Furniture, Rugs, Stoves and Homefurnishings of the better kinds—and to have steadily grown and prospered during all of these years — is a distinction that we are mighty proud of

OF course, there are many outstanding reasons for the mighty preference we have enjoyed—a preference that has made us Fayette's Leading Homefurnishers.

AT Aaron's you can make your selections from Six Big Floors and Basement—larger varieties and assortments than shown in any other store in Southwestern Pennsylvania. And having larger varieties to choose from, it naturally follows that here you are sure to find the things best suited to your particular needs.

AND we buy only Furniture, Rugs, Stoves and Homefurnishings of the best, dependable makes—the kind that have quality built right into them — the kind you'll really enjoy living with—the kind that "grow old gracefully" — the only kind that can and will give the service and satisfaction that you naturally expect.

WHEN we make our purchases — we buy for three, large, busy stores. Where the "little fellow" buys an article or two of a kind—Aaron's buys in carload lots—directly from the manufacturers. And the saving we effect in this way is passed right on to you—assuring you the largest values obtainable.

THEN, to make doubly sure of your complete and lasting satisfaction at all times, every article that you purchase at Aaron's—no matter how little or how much you pay for it—is backed by our unqualified "satisfaction guarantee." That's just an additional safeguard—for your protection as well as our own.

SO, if you are not already familiar with the many advantages and benefits you enjoy by selecting your Home needs at Aaron's—that have been responsible for our steady growth and continued success—why not take this opportunity of better acquainting yourself. Come in! See for yourself just why Aaron's is the logical store at which to choose your Home needs.

ANOTHER NEW CHURCH.

Congratulations are due the members of the Church of the Brethren in having provided themselves with a new and commodious house of worship. This congregation which is comparatively small numerically and without the resources of some other religious bodies in the city, has shown its faith by its works in the erection of its church plant. The members have made real sacrifices to assist in providing the funds for the building which will bring to them compensations known only to those who thus give.

Complaint is sometimes made that too many churches are built. That would be true, perhaps, if all the people in a community were of one religious faith. But when well established bodies of worshippers have gained sufficient strength to enter upon a church building proposition as a means of enlarging their work and activities, such undertakings are to be encouraged rather than discouraged.

The case of the Church of the Brethren is plainly of this kind, the number of persons who adhere to this faith having grown so that a church home has become a real necessity for them. This they have provided after very patient effort and they are now in a position to take up their work as part of the religious forces in Connellsville and vicinity. As such the wish is that they may grow and prosper.

SURVEY OF COLORED PEOPLE.

In arranging for a conference to consider undertaking a survey of the colored people of the state, Dr. Ellen C. Potter, secretary of welfare, recognizes the fact that this element in our population has, to a certain extent, been overlooked by the agencies devoted to caring for dependents.

The object of the conference, as stated by Dr. Potter, "is to undertake a comprehensive survey of the welfare work of the State of Pennsylvania, directed by the most competent investigator or investigators procurable, to ascertain the actual facts both as to the extent and limitation of all the agencies and facilities now available to negroes for health, physical and mental, housing, recreation, the care of delinquents, child welfare, industrial opportunity, and the coöperation of church, home and school."

The survey work will be carried on in conjunction with the inter-racial study to be made by a committee to be appointed by Governor Pinchot.

There is need for a fuller knowledge about the several races now comprising the population of the state, including the facts that have a bearing upon living conditions, opportunities for employment, recreation and whatever else may have an important influence upon their value and usefulness as citizens. Having shown themselves to be good citizens the colored people are deserving of whatever benefits may result from a thoroughgoing inquiry such as Dr. Potter contemplates having made.

Labor Unions in Banking

Pittsburg Gazette Times.

The latest venture of organized labor into the field of banking was made in New York last Saturday, when the International Union Bank was formally opened. The institution was organized, by the International Ladies' Garment Workers' Union and affiliated bodies. More than 200 individuals were in line to make deposits before the doors were opened and 5,000 persons visited the bank during the day. It is stated that the first day's business amounted to $600,000 deposits, credited to 460 savings and 200 commercial accounts. That is a splendid showing of interest and confidence in the enterprise, and incidentally of the economic position of members of the garment makers' unions. Possibly the selection of the psychological moment for the opening of the new bank contributed to its inaugural success, coming immediately after the Christmas gift-giving, in which cash is annually playing a larger part.

The Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers was the pioneer in the movement of organized labor into the field of banking, and the event caused some shaking of heads among the ultra-conservative, and some admonitions to the effect that "the shoemaker should stick to his last." Fears and admonitions alike having proved unfounded, the success of the pioneer has stimulated similar enterprises in various parts of the country.

Since the organization of the Federal Reserve system one of the chief bugbears of banking, periodic scarcity of currency, has been eliminated. In the old days some of the best of banks were often embarrassed because of the difficulty in obtaining adequate supplies of currency with which to make up industrial payrolls and to pay depositors on demand. Today, however, the potential supply of hand-to-hand money is virtually unlimited, provided the assets of the bank are sound and in the form required as a pledge for the issuance of reserve bank notes.

HOW THE NATION IS PROTECTED FROM SERIOUS DISASTER

City Without a Reserve Water Supply Against Destruction by Fire Likened by Bankers' Committee to Business Situation Without Federal Reserve System.

A vital element in everybody's prosperity is that mysterious sounding "something or other" called bank reserve, says the Committee on Public Education of the American Bankers Association, adding: "It isn't an easy matter to make simple and interesting, but its importance to every man, woman and child in the country makes the effort worth while." The Committee continues:

Money on deposit must always be ready for depositors when they desire it. Banks must also be ready to loan money, when needed, to their customers, or business would be hampered. In other words, prosperity depends largely on the ability of the banks to meet these demands—that is, depends on the "bank reserves." The problem of handling reserves has been difficult. The Federal Reserve System has met the problem more satisfactorily than any other method ever tried in this country.

The Great Solution

Our banks are managed by officers and directors, elected by their own stockholders. They are interested in helping the town to grow and prosper. But just as a local telephone station is valuable to the interchange of thought because it belongs to a system whose wires reach to all parts of the nation, so the local bank is valuable to the interchange of business because of its connections with other banks in the United States, finding its strength and its usefulness in being part of a system.

For many years a plan was sought whereby our thousands of separate and independent banks could get together and cooperate for the improvement of our banking methods, and for mutual protection in emergencies, both for themselves and customers. We had periodical money panics, dangerously disturbing to business, and chargeable, in large part, to defects in our banking and currency system.

There was no central bank from which the individual banks could get assistance in time of trouble. Panic conditions caused weak banks to fail, and even strong and sound institutions to be imperilled. Bankers, business men, and leaders in Congress for years made a careful study of banking and finally Congress passed a law providing for the establishment of twelve great Federal Reserve Banks, each designed to serve as a sort of central bank for such banks in its allotted territory as might become members of the Federal Reserve System.

It retained the American plan of independent banks doing business under the management of their own directors and officers. About 10,000 banks have become members of the Federal Reserve System. The member banks in each district own the entire stock of the Federal Reserve bank there, and elect two-thirds of the directors. The other directors are appointed by the Federal Reserve Board at Washington, the Governmental body having supervision over the Reserve banks, though it does not operate them. Its members are appointed by the President of the United States.

The Federal Reserve banks hold member banks' reserves. Formerly each bank carried in its own vault the cash required by law as a legal reserve so that it would be ready to pay depositors on demand. The gold supply of the country was thus scattered among thousands of independent banks.

When Fire Rages

This situation may be likened to the old-time water supply in a town. Each house had to depend on its individual well, tank, or cistern. Picture such a town attacked by fire. If the water was low in one well, from drought, or excessive use, water would have to be borrowed from a neighboring well. Suppose the water in that well also was at a low level. Thus the safety of all was sacrificed because no RESERVE water supply was at hand. The fire would become a conflagration.

Under the Federal Reserve System, we have a series of modern reservoirs, located in various parts of the country, each serving the needs of the banks in its own district. In each of these reservoirs credit is stored up to be supplied to the various banks, as the need arises. Each reservoir is in turn connected with all the others so that when the supply in one becomes low, the others may be temporarily drawn upon. By gathering the gold reserves of the member banks into the twelve Federal Reserve banks, a result has been obtained like that yielded by the construction of a great city water supply.

Each member bank formerly had to depend almost entirely upon its own resources in making loans to its customers. When it had loaned all of its own money, it could do no more, even though the merchant, manufacturer, or farmer customer had great need of more credit, and was seeking it for highly important and necessary purposes. Hence arose what was called a "tight money" situation. Now the member bank can, and frequently does take the notes of its customers to the Federal Reserve bank, and borrows there in much the same way as the customer borrows from the member bank.

This reserve-storing and loaning work of the Reserve System is only part of the wonderful protection and service it is rendering the nation.

WHOM WILL HE FAVOR?

By MORRIS

"IF I WERE BILL."

"If I were Bill," said he to me,
"I think I'd do more good than he
If I had all he has to give,
I think a kindot life I'd live
I'd help a lot of folks I know
If I were Bill and he were Joe.

"If I were him, I'd be a Jim
In every way excelling him
I'd do the things he fails to do,
And cure the faults men plainly view;
I'd lift full many a weight of woe,
If I were Jim and he were Joe.

"If I were George, I swear I'd be
A finer sort of George than he
For needy men to help I'd search,
I'd lift the mortgage on the church.
But things have not been ordered so,
For he is George and I am Joe."

"If I were you," said I, "I'd see
How good a Joseph I could be
I fancy Bill and George and Jim
Are doing well enough for Him
Who sent us all to serve below—
Perhaps He'd like a better Joe.

"It's wasting time to lie awake
Thinking how good a Jim you'd make
Perhaps you'd make a better Bill
Or else a better George, but still,
Your chance for glory is to see
How good a Joseph you can be."

ARTHUR GEARHART PRESIDENT OF MT. PLEASANT COUNCIL

Frank R. Simpson Retires With Perfect Record of Four Years.

HEALTH BOARD ORGANIZES

Special to The Courier.

MOUNT PLEASANT, Jan 8—Borough council met in regular session last evening with Frank R Simpson presiding and all of the members of the old council present but George Koontz.

The report of the Board of Health was received and placed on file. Bills not already paid were approved. Reports were read of the amounts in the various funds. The paving and sewer fund showed a balance, the first time in a number of years, of $1102. Councilman Arthur Gearhart of the fire and water committee reported rubber goods ordered. The old council adjourned, the new councilmen took their seats, Mr. Gearhart and Mr. Dixon taking the oath from Burgess William M Overholt. Mr. Swartz and Nixon already had made affidavit.

Burgess Overholt presided Arthur Gearhart was elected president; Frank L. Overly, secretary; William Hitchman, treasurer, and Eugene Warden, solicitor.

President Gearhart then took the chair and they went into an election of police officers. Robert Smith was re-elected chief, Joseph White and Joseph Nugent, patrolmen. William Lobinger was elected street commissioner and Jerry Lobinger fire truck driver Harry Whetzel was elected assistant truck driver.

August Robinslaw asked for a grade in front of his West Smithfield street house Mr. Erhart of Walnut street asked for turnout to a drive at his Walnut street home. This was granted provided he bear the expense.

On motion of Councilman Nixon it was decided to reconsider the motion not to allow the West Penn to run the one-man car and to allow it to run one-man cars through the town as long as it continued to run half hour service. Burgess Overholt was given permission to have installed two silent policemen.

The retiring president, Frank R. Simpson, who served four years as a member of council, two as president, gave up his chair with the record of not having missed one meeting either special or regular during his time in office.

Directors Named.

The Board of Trade met last evening to hear reports from their committees. Three groups of directors were elected, one for five years, one for two years, one for one year.

The group elected for five years was made up of William Rakustin, A. T. Collins, C. A. Graul, J. B Coldsmith and J. D Hitchman; the two-year group, G. S Bryce, C E Zimmerman, F. D. Barnhart, C. M Wible and Clark Queer; the one-year group, F S Dullinger, James S. Braddock, William M Overholt, M. A. King and Eugene Warden.

INCOME TAX IN NUTSHELL.

WHO? Single persons who had net income of $1,000 or more or gross income of $5,000 or more, and married couples who had net income of $2,000 or more or gross income of $5,000 or more must file returns.

WHEN? The filing period is from January 1 to March 15, 1924

WHERE? Collector of internal revenue for the district in which the person lives or has his principal place of business.

HOW? Instructions on Form 1040A and Form 1040; also the law and regulations.

WHAT? Four per cent normal tax on the first $4,000 of net income in excess of the personal exemption and credits for dependents. Eight per cent normal tax on balance of net income. Surtax from 1 per cent to 50 per cent on net incomes over $50,000 for the year 1923.

TIPS FOR TAXPAYERS.

No. 7.

In the income-tax returns of married couples must be included the income from their earnings of dependent-minor children. The parents are allowed, however, a credit of $100 for each such child under eighteen years of age.

For example, John Smith, an artisan, had a net income for 1923 of $2,000, his wife earned $1,500 as a clerk, and two sons, 15 and 17 years of age, earned $600 each as messengers. From the total family income of $4,700 the parents are allowed to deduct a personal exemption of $2,500 plus a $400 credit for each son, leaving a taxable net income of $1,400. If husband and wife file separate returns, the one furnishing the chief support may claim the credit for dependents.

Frequently a minor is "emancipated," or released from parental power In such event a return is required of a minor (or his guardian) if the minor's net income was $1,000 or more, or $2,000 or more, according to his marital status, or if his gross income was $5,000 or more.

Emancipation does not necessarily involve a breaking of family ties, nor need it be evidenced by a formal act. It may be expressed or implied, general or limited, in writing or oral. When a son supports himself and pays his board at home, there is an implied emancipation; also if a child is in business for himself and the parents exercise no control over his earnings. In the absence of proof to the contrary it is assumed that a parent has a legal right to the earnings of a minor child.

U. S. World Court Plan for Peace Wins Bok $100,000 Prize

By United Press

NEW YORK, Jan 7.—Beginning today the American people will have their first opportunity to vote directly on the question of whether the United States should cooperate in effecting world peace through the agencies of the existing League of Nations and the World Court.

Throughout the Nation a poll will begin on Plan No 1,459, announced as the winner of the Edward W Bok $100,000 prize for the best possible plan to maintain international peace The winning plan was selected from 22,165 plans submitted to a jury headed by Elihu Root. The name of the author will not be made public until after a referendum which starts throughout the Nation today and ends early next month.

He already has received $50,000 and will be given an additional $50,000 if the plan receives public approval The plan proposes immediate entry of the United States into the permanent international court of justice and full cooperation of this country with the League of Nations under certain conditions

HEADACHE, NERVOUSNESS ENDED

"I had had Saint Vitus Dance, and it left me in an awful nervous condition," said Adolphus Shields, a well known Clarksburg, W. Va. resident. "My head ached a great deal, and my stomach was also in bad shape. I had doctored considerably with no results. Two bottles of Nerv-Worth improved my condition wonderfully, and I feel like a new man"

Party Favors.

One Mother Says:

Favors to take home from my son's birthday party were made by the guests at the party. I had saved enough one-pound coffee cans to give each guest one. The children covered each end with gold paper, then covered the sides with red tissue paper. A string was then tied around the drum and a loop long enough to reach around the neck was left. A pair of new clothespins were the drumsticks. The children were delighted with the drums they'd made.

PERFUME MADE FROM FRUIT

Flowers, Herbs and Spices Also Used in Making of Sweet Scents.

Flowers, fruit, herbs and spices are the sources from which perfumes are obtained. Oranges and lemons are the chief fruits used for the purpose; lavender holds first place among the herbs, and cinnamon among the spices Oils from nuts are also often used, and so is the sap from the ceding tree Manufacturers extract the perfume by the process of distilling but there are much simpler ways of preparing small quantities of scent, and it is to these, rather than to the more elaborate methods, that the amateur would turn her attention Oils, wood and roots may be regarded as beyond the scope of the amateur, but almost all of the flower scents are easy enough to make at home. Any sweet-scented flowers, such as night-scented stock, violets and roses can be used as a basis. The simplest method of producing liquid scent is to soak the petals of the flowers in hot oil. Allow this to stand until cool and then gently heat again After doing this several times, pour off the oil and repeat, using fresh flowers This should be done several times until the scent absorbed by the oil has become sufficiently strong Some scents, such as eau-de cologne, are made by mixing a number of different things, and as the amateur makes progress with her hobby she will find great fascination in inventing blends of her own.

Old Memories.

"You seem to hate that girl."

"I once gave her an engagement ring, but she threw me over."

"Well, I wouldn't hold rancor against a girl I once loved"

"It isn't exactly that," said the other chap. "But it makes me peevish every time I see her. I'm still paying the installments on that ring."

Cleaned the Knives.

"Mary," said the mistress, "just go and see if the pudding is cooked. Stick a knife in it and see if it comes out clean."

A few minutes later Mary returned.

"It comes out wonderful, mum," she said, "so I've stuck all the other knives in it."

Lion Tamers Open Home Floor Season Tonight, Meeting St. Vincents

Leisenring Boys Will Be Real Opposition for Denizens of Jungle.

COKERS AT SCOTTDALE

The Lion Tamers' Club and the St. Vincent Club, the latter of Leisenring No. 1, will clash at the High School gymnasium this evening. The game will be the first at home for the Lion Tamers and with a strong line-up, such as is wearing uniforms of that organization this season, the club should have a big year.

The St. Vincent Club has demonstrated its strength and the game this evening will be an early season climax to a lot of dissenting opinions. The game will be called at 8:15 o'clock.

Castan Hands Lacing To Uniontown Outfit

The fast going Mystery Five of Uniontown went down to a severe defeat at the hands of the South Connellsville "Glass Blowers" at the Capstan gym last evening. The visitors were completely outclassed by the well-coached Glass Blowers, who out-played their opponents in every quarter.

Gardner was the high scorer, ringing up seven baskets for Capstan, while Palladino led the visitors with three field goals.

This was the third game of the season for Capstan and the South Connellsville boys have won all. The first game was with the fast Lion Tamers of this city, the second with the C. A. U., a newly organized team.

The line-up:

Lucke Is Star Bowler

Leo C. Lucke, winner of the 1923 eastern individual bowling championship tourney, who twice defeated Jimmie Smith, star bowler of Milwaukee, Wis., while the latter was on tour meeting all comers last season. A match is contemplated with Lucke and Glenn Riddell against Charley Trucks and Bill Knox, 1923 American bowling congress champion.

New York Furnishes Six Captains for Princeton

A study of the geographical distribution of the homes of captains of Princeton university's athletic teams brings to light the unusual fact that no less than six of the captains come from New York city, or from towns near New York.

Two of these men are captains of major sport teams. J. T. Pirie, II, captain of this year's crew, comes from New York city, as does Harvey Emery, captain of the track team. Besides being captain of the track team, Emery is captain of the wrestling team, president of the senior class and president of the Varsity club, and is holding down a regular position as tackle on the orange and black football team.

Carl Moser, captain of swimming and national intercollegiate diving champion, is also from New York city. John Klaess, basketball captain, and Kenneth Dittmar, captain of lacrosse, are from Rockville Centre, L. I., and Scarsdale, N. Y., respectively.

Joe Dugan Is Hailed as Greatest Third Baseman

Joe Dugan, by his great work for the Yankees last season, and his showing in the world series, just about earned the right to be classed as the greatest third sacker in the game. National leaguers say that "Pie" Traynor of Pittsburgh is his only rival.

William Haines, coach of the Harvard varsity crew from 1915 to 1922, and a rowing instructor at Harvard, will coach the Massachusetts Institute of Technology crew next year.

* * *

Charles Pore, holder of the five-mile record, who retired from active competition last year, plans a comeback this winter. His first appearance will be at the Millrose A. A. games at New York.

Love's Supreme Sacrifice

"RESOLUTELY I wedged myself forward in the crowd until I commanded an unobstructed view.

"A groan of anguish burst from me at the unbelievable thing I saw.

"There upon the foliage encircled stage kneeled my wife, her slender form revealed by the incredibly scant costume and the searching spotlight. As I looked, her perfect figure came to life and moved into the rhythms of a dance so wildly, primitively beautiful that the onlookers will remember it till their dying day.

"There are dances and dances, the sacred dances of old Hawaii and the sensational dances of the Ziegfeld Follies; but this was a revelation of sensuous tropical beauty, of complete abandon, and of maddening passion.

"Half crazed with horror I stumbled from that accursed place into the beauty of the tropic night while my bride of a few weeks—she who bore my name—who had sworn she would never dance again, basked half-naked in the thunderous applause of the seething, howling mob of leering men."

* * * * * * * * * * *

What heartless tricks fate plays. How prone is human nature to jump to unwarranted conclusions. He thought this girl who had a strain of Polynesian blood in her veins, had forgotten decency and love and sacred promise under the alluring call of the tropics to dance the dance of her cannibal ancestors to the lilt and beat of savage South Sea music.

This tale of the love of a tropical girl for a man of the temperate zone will move you as you have seldom been moved. You will say it is one of the strongest, most beautiful stories you ever read. With her you will go down into the depths, with her you will soar to the heights and you will exult that her sacrifice was not in vain. Be sure to read "Her Savage Blood" in True Story Magazine for February.

Then, before she could realize what he was about to do he knelt before her on the moonlit sand. "Is it after all too late?" he pleaded. "I did not know, but—can you ever—ever—forgive me?"

Throbbing, Soul-Stirring Stories From Life

Here are just a few of the wonderful features in the February issue of True Story Magazine

"A Second-Hand Bride"—Poor, foolish, self-deceived wife! She thought marriage vows were made to be treated lightly—that letting another man make love to her in secret was only a bit of innocent philandering. But she quickly found that the spark of passion, once aroused, may become a flaming torch that consumes the soul and blasts all hope of happiness.

"The Shadow of the Past"—She lived on a homestead, a widow, unprotected, alone. Her baby boy was dying. A man rode up to the door and she pleaded with him to go for the doctor. He agreed to go—for a "price." It was a case of life or death for her baby, and in order to save her baby, she agreed to his base bargain. The son grew up, and when he learned what had happened—

"The Stain of Scandal"—Will a good woman imperil her honor to save her children from the stinging lash of scandal-wagging tongues? Her husband had ceased to love her. A younger girl, physically riper, more beautiful, had come into his life. The scandal became notorious. But here was a wife and mother who dared so grandly for the sake of her children that she made even the scandal-mongers hang their heads in shame.

"A Soul For Sale"—Souls are the cheapest things in New York. Ask the girl who is young, attractive, without money, friends or home. Here is the story of a girl, faced with dishonor, who had to make "the great decision." You may blame her a little—you will pity her much. But you'll also rejoice that a girl of courage can beat the devil at his own game, and in the end find happiness.

"Mother Love"—Out of the stormy night she came—daughter of the banker, belle of the younger set, whose parents thought her safely away at school. Clinging to the woman physician, between sobs that seemed to tear her heart in shreds, she poured out her pitiful story, the old, old pitiful story. Read how perilous for this girl was the path of folly, how hard the way to atonement, yet how certainly she proves that no matter what happens—a girl can come back."

"She Married For Money"—He took advantage of the fact that she was an orphan, without money, or friends, and caused her to lose her position so he could get her into his power. Then he tricked her into his home with promises of getting her another job, but she discovered his treachery in time and escaped from the house. But he was not finished with her. Read how he plotted to force her to his will and how a carefully schemed "marriage" didn't turn out the way he had planned.

Dramas From Life

More thrilling than the fiction plots of the greatest novelists and playwrights are the life-dramas unfolding around us every day. How little we really know about the men and women we see around us! If we could search their hearts and minds, and uncover their hidden thoughts and motives; if we could penetrate the armor that guards the secrets of their soul—what tremendous stories we would find there! What epics of love and sorrow; of self-sacrifice and failure; of shame and degradation; of brave battling for happiness against the forces of injustice and wrong!

It is only as men and women find courage to reveal their inner lives that we come to know their stories. It is such stories that find their way to the pages of True Story Magazine. Watch for them. Every issue is filled with new, true life-stories of tremendous interest that you cannot afford to miss.

Other Startling Life Stories In This Issue Are:

"Two Kinds of Kisses"
"In Death's Shadow"
"In Every Woman's Heart"
"My Twice-Wed Husband"
"The Empty Heart"
"Blind Love"
"Back From Hell"
"Which Was His Wife?"

How True Story Originated

The gigantic strides that True Story Magazine has made in the past few months is conclusive evidence that Bernarr Macfadden has given the public the kind of magazine it wants.

You know that Bernarr Macfadden is the greatest living expert on physical culture. Thousands seek his advice on intimate personal matters. They bare their hearts in the hope that he can give them help. It was from these real confessions that Mr. Macfadden got his idea for True Story Magazine.

He saw in a magazine of this kind a way to help others avoid the heart-breaking mistakes of life. He believed that he could help society in general if he published these true stories of the mistakes, joys and tragedies of men and women like yourself. And thus True Story Magazine was born.

Perhaps you have wondered why nearly two million people eagerly wait for this amazing magazine each month. You will find the answer in the February True Story. Get your copy from your nearest news dealer. If he cannot supply you, use the coupon below.

True Story Magazine a Great Moral Force

Through its true chronicles of the mistakes and tragedies of others, True Story Magazine acts as a powerful constructive moral force. It exposes the snares, temptations and pitfalls of life. It sounds a warning, sets up the sign posts of danger, for the innocent, the uninformed, the weak and erring to see. It is a challenge to the forces of evil. It lights the "way of return" to the fallen.

Read These Letters

A minister meets so many difficult problems, comes in close touch with so many heartaches, he finds comfort and inspiration in reading TRUE STORY and glimpsing the heart-throbs of the other fellow.

True stories get under the skin and bring us into touch with real life. This magazine should have a vast influence in building character and shaping destiny.

Rev. George M. Elsbree, 1922 Hunt Ave., N. Y. City

I greatly enjoy a True Story full of "pep" and encouragement to travelers through life. Such a story is a benediction and very helpful. The human heart craves such inspiring help. When such inspiration comes from a large hearted, clean magazine it is bound to bring success into many a life.

Rev. John J. Monro, 1060 Cauldwell Ave., N. Y. City

I can most heartily endorse the purpose of the TRUE STORY MAGAZINE, for there was never more great need to get away from the fanciful and fictitious and back to the truth than at the present time.

At the Theatres

The Paramount

"A BILL OF DIVORCEMENT," the feature picture today at this theatre, presents Constance Binney in the title role. "A Bill of Divorcement" has a story which would require a lot of beating for strong and sustained human interest. It deals with a problem that faces many thousands of people in this country today and answers, in the only practical and human way, the question which it sets: What is to become of the partner in a domestic alliance when the other one is condemned by medical opinion to a life of eternal incarceration owing to mental trouble? A Bill of Divorcement, which gives the unhappy partner freedom to marry again after a specified period, is the answer provided by the author of the problem, and the play shows how in certain circumstances, this very freedom of action may affect the future welfare and happiness of the parties to the dissolved contract. The cast is a brilliant and talented one. Constance Binney fairly scintillates in the role of Sydney Fairfield. It is a role, that, for range of real emotion, comes to an actress once in a life-time. Next in importance is the role of Margaret, played by Fay Compton with magnificent skill. Miss Compton and Miss Binney, as mother and daughter, present a picture of two radiantly beautiful women. Malcolm Keen, as the demented man, has your sympathy at all times, and plays a difficult role with restraint.

Wednesday and Thursday "The Man Between" will be shown.

The Soisson

"RED LIGHT"—On view today and tomorrow at this theatre, present Marie Prevost, Alice Lake, Ray Griffith and Johnny Walker in the stellar roles.

A mystery play of unusual type is Goldwyn's "Red Lights," from the Edward Rose play, "The Rear Car" in which Richard Bennett and Taylor Holmes were starred. In it a half-crazed inventor discovers a means by which he can project his voice by using red lights. He makes use of his discovery to terrorize the abducted daughter of his brother who had won the girl both men loved. The girl hears mysterious warnings and threats issuing from balls of red light which hover about her room in the Ambassador Hotel in Los Angeles and on the Overland Limited on which she is traveling back to her father. The girl escapes death at the hands of Ezra Carson, her uncle, and Kirk Allen, an unscrupulous lawyer, through the intervention of the "crime deflector" whom her lover John Blake, has engaged to protect her.

The picture contains thrill upon thrill of a most surprising kind. To tell them in advance would take away from one's enjoyment of the film. The melodramatic pseudo-scientific story contains much comedy, but it is through its attacks upon the spinal column and the nervous system that it reaches its highest point. Nothing so thrilling, it is stated, has been done in the films before. The "crime deflector" is a new sort of detective who prevents crime.

Thursday, Friday and Saturday, "The Man Between" will be shown. "The Beautiful and Damned" will be shown.

The Orpheum

"STRANGERS OF THE NIGHT," a screen version of the famous stage play, "Captain Applejack," is the feature picture today and tomorrow at this theatre. The use of the title "Strangers of the Night," superceding to only a slight degree the original title "Captain Applejack," is a concession to the characteristic requirements of motion picture audiences as opposed to the regular attendants at the so-called "legitimate" theatres. Educated to expect titles which strongly hint at the action elements of the story, in "Strangers of the Night" photoplay devotees are given an added pleasure in anticipation which might be lost to them in "Captain Applejack." It is important to remember that the title change is the only important one in the business of translating the original story from the stage to the screen. "Strangers of the Night" is "Captain Applejack" from the first incident to the last, without exaggeration or distortion, retaining all the quaintly whimsical touches which Walter Hackett had in mind when he wrote the script and which both Sir Charles Hawtrey and Wallace Eddinger got across the footlights so admirably to the tremendous delight of the theatregoing public both in London and in this country. Matt Moore heads a brilliant cast and the blonde beauty of Enid Bennett vies with the dark seductiveness of Barbara La Marr in the affections of the spectators. Robert McKim is again a superb villain.

Thursday, Friday and Saturday "The Eternal Struggle" will be shown.

HARRY K. THAW; EVELYN NESBIT THAW.

PHILADELPHIA—February 1 will see Harry K. Thaw, slayer of Stanford White, and former husband of Evelyn Nesbit, released from Kirkbride Asylum, where he has been confined since 1917, a free man, a report here says.

Though Ex-Judge James Gay Gordon, counsel for the Thaw family, denied such a move was contemplated, it was reported that plans instigated by Thaw himself are under way to have him declared sane and that no opposition would be made by his mother, Mary Copley Thaw, or by the trustees of the Thaw estate.

Evelyn Nesbit, for whom he shot White, with her son, Russell Thaw, 14, is running a cafe at Atlantic City.

"You didn't give me a chance, d—n you," he snarled. "You hit me before I had a chance to—"

"I wish to God I had hit you sooner, and that I had killed you," grated Kenneth.

"You will wish that with all your soul before I am through with you," snarled Barry. "Oh, I'm not afraid of you! I know the whole beastly story about your father and that—"

"Stop!" cried Kenneth, taking a step forward, his arm drawn back. "Not another word, Lapelle! You've said enough! I know where you got your information—and I can tell you, here and now, that the man lied to you. I'm going to give you twenty-four hours to get out of this town for good. And if I hear that you have repeated a word of what you said to her I'll see to it that you are strung up by the neck and your miserable carcass filled with bullets. Oh, you needn't sputter! It will be your word against mine. I guess you know which of us the men of this town will believe. And you needn't expect to be supported by your friend Jasper Sngas or the gentle Mr. Hawk—Aha, that got under your pelt, didn't it! If either of them is still alive at this minute, it's because he surrendered without a fight and not because God took care of him. Your beautiful game is spoiled, Lapelle—and you'll be lucky to get off with a whole skin. I'm giving you a chance. Get out of this town—and stay out!"

Barry, recovering quickly from the shock, made a fair show of bravado.

"What are you talking about? What the devil have I got to do with—"

"That's enough! You know what I'm talking about. Take my advice. Get out of town before you are a day older. You will save yourself a ride on a rail and a rawhiding that you'll not forget to your dying day."

"I will leave this town when I feel like it, Gwynne," said Lapelle, drawing himself up. "I don't take orders from you. You will hear from me later. You've got the upper hand now—with that nigger of yours standing over there holding an ax in his hands, ready to kill me if I make a move. We'll settle this in the regular way, Gwynne—with pistols. You may expect a friend of mine to call on you shortly."

"As you like," retorted the other, bowing stiffly. "You may name the time and place."

Lapelle bowed and then cast an eye about in quest of his hat. It was lying in the road some distance away. He strode over and picked it up. Quite naturally, perhaps unconsciously, he resorted to the habit of years; he cocked it slightly at just the right angle over his eye. Then, without a glance behind, he crossed the road and plunged into the thicket.

Kenneth watched him till he disappeared from view. Suddenly aware of a pain in his hand, he held it out before him and was astonished to find that the knuckles were already beginning to puff. He winced when he tried to clench his fist. A rueful smile twitched at the corners of his mouth.

"Mighty slim chance I'll have," he said to himself. "Won't be able to pull a trigger to save my life."

It suddenly occurred to him that he ought to intercept Rachel Carter before she reached the house, not only to prepare her for the shock that awaited her but to devise between them some means of undoing the harm that already had been done. They would have to stand together in denouncing Barry, they would have to swear to Viola that the story was false. He realized what this would mean to him: an almost profane espousal of his enemy's cause, involving not only the betrayal of his own conscience but the deliberate repudiation of the debt he owed his mother and her people. He would have to go before Viola and proclaim the innocence of the woman who had robbed and murdered his own mother. The unthinkable, the unbelievable confronted him.

A cold sweat broke out all over him as he stood down by the gate, torn between hatred for one woman and love for another: Rachel and Minda Carter. He could not spare one without sparing the other; lying to one of them meant lying for the other. But there was no alternative. The memory of the look in Viola's eyes as she shrank away from Lapelle, the thought of the cruel shock she must have suffered, the picture of her as she came down the path to kill—no, there could be no alternative!

And so, as he leaned rigidly against the gate, sick at heart but clear of head, waiting for Rachel Carter, he came to think that, after all, a duel with Barry Lapelle might prove to be the easiest and noblest way out of his difficulties.

CHAPTER XVII

The Affair at Hawk's Cabin.

It wanted half an hour of daybreak when a slow-riding, silent group of men came to a halt and dismounted in the narrow lane some distance from the ramshackle abode of Martin Hawk, squatting unseen among the trees that lined the steep bank of the Wabash. A three hours' ride through dark, muddy roads lay behind them. There were a dozen men in all—and one woman, at whose side rode the hunter, Stain. They had stopped at the latter's cabin on the way down and she had conversed apart with him through a window. Then they rode off, leaving him to follow.

There were no lights, and no man spoke above a whisper. The work of tethering the horses progressed swiftly but with infinite caution. Eyes made sharp by long hours of darkness served their owners well in this stealthy enterprise.

The half-hour passed and the night began to lift. Vague unusual objects slowly took shape, like gloomy spectres emerging from impenetrable fastnesses. Blackness gave way to a faint drab pall; then the cold, unearthly gray of the still remote dawn came stealing across the fields.

At last it was light enough to see, and the advance upon the cabin began. Silently through the dense, shadowy wood crept the sheriff and his men, followed by the tall woman in black and a lank, bearded man whose rifle-stock bore seven tiny but significant notches—sinister epitaphs for as many bygone men.

A dog barked—the first alarm. Then another, and still a third joined in a fierce outcry against the invaders. Suddenly the door of the hut was thrown open and a half-dressed man stooped in the low aperture, peering out across the dawn-shrouded clearing. The three cur-dogs, slinking out of the shadows, crowded up to the door, their snarling muzzles pointed toward the encircling trees.

Two men stepped out of the underbrush and advanced. Even in the dim, uncertain light Martin Hawk could see that they carried rifles. His eyes were like those of the bird whose name he bore. They swept the clearing in a flash. As if by magic, men appeared to right of him, to left of him. He counted them. Seven—no, there was another—eight. And he knew there were more of them, back of the house, cutting off retreat to the river.

"Don't move, Martin," called out a voice.

"What do you want?" demanded Hawk, in a sharp, querulous voice.

"I am the sheriff. Got a warrant for your arrest. No use makin' a fight for it, Hawk. You are completely surrounded. You can't get away."

"I ain't done nothin' to be arrested for," cried the man in the doorway. "I'm an honest man—I hain't ever done—"

"Well, that's not for me to decide," interrupted the sheriff, now not more than a dozen feet away. "I've got a warrant charging you with sheep stealing and so on, and that's all there is to it. I'm not the judge and jury. You come along quiet now and no foolishness."

"Who says I stole sheep?"

"Step outside here and I'll read the affidavit to you. And say, if you don't want your dogs massacred you'd better call 'em off."

Martin Hawk looked over his shoulder into the dark interior of the hut, spoke to some one under his breath, and then began cursing his dogs.

"I might have knowed you'd git me into trouble you lop-eared sheep-killin' whelps!" he whined. "I'd ought to shot the hull pack of ye when you was pups. Git out'n my sight! There's yer sheep-stealers, sheriff—them ornery, white-livered blood-suckin'—"

HELP FOR THE MAN WHO WANTS TO BUILD

GOOD VARNISH IS ESSENTIAL IN PAINTING HOME

The fourth of a series of articles by the Architects' Small House Service bureau of the United States to show how paint protects and decorates your home.

Inferior varnishes are made of excessive quantities of cheap resin gum and oils. These wear out, lose their gloss, or stain too readily. Expensive materials used in compounds that are out of balance give results that are unsatisfactory.

For example, chemists show that an excessive amount of china wood oil used in varnish will make it highly resistant to water staining, but that this property is gained at the expense of durability. It requires expert manufacturing and compounding to keep the proper balance between these things.

Get the Right Varnish

On account of the different requirements that are made of varnish, such as for floor coverings, furniture, trim, outside work, varnish that is to be subjected to hot water, acid, and so on, manufacturers have produced a great many kinds, each one of which has qualities which especially fit it for particular uses. You will see that the kind of varnish that would be suitable for a chair would not generally be best for a floor, and so on.

Since this varnish matter is such a closed book to everybody but the manufacturers, the only resource that the layman has is to use the product of a manufacturer who bears a reputation which has stood the test of time. When a manufacturer thinks enough of his product to print his name upon the label and then stand behind that product, guaranteeing absolute satisfaction, and when that manufacturer remains in business a long term of years and has a continuous reputation for superior products, you have a right to expect satisfactory results.

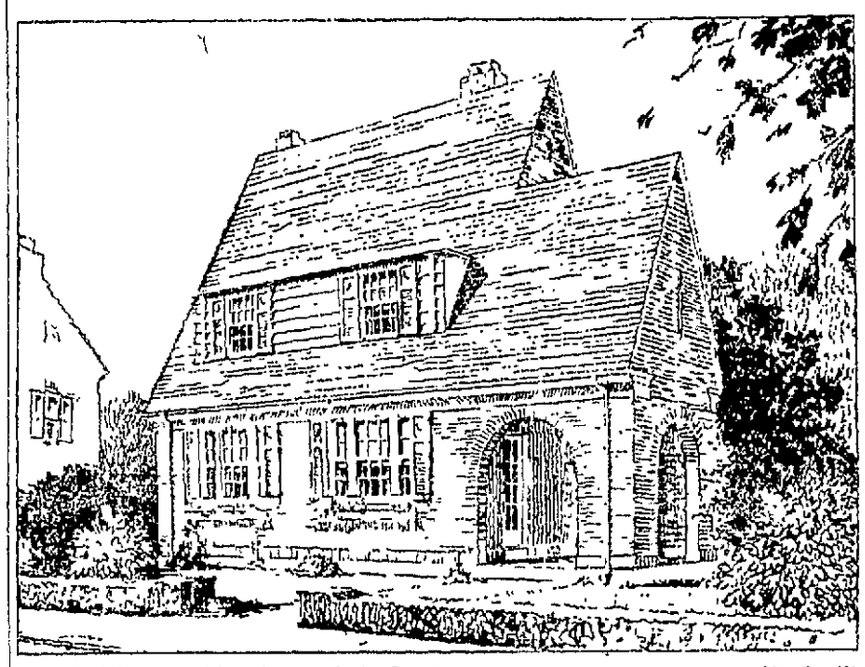
When a Day's Delay Pays

It must be said that certain conditions other than those of the varnish must be right if the varnish work is to turn out well. It will not do, for example to put varnish on damp wood or even to apply it in a room where the air is excessively damp. We want moderately cool, dry air and clean dry materials before we start, and then there should be no hurry after the work has begun. Leave time for the successive coatings to harden—a day's delay to make sure of this may return large profits to you in a good and durable job.

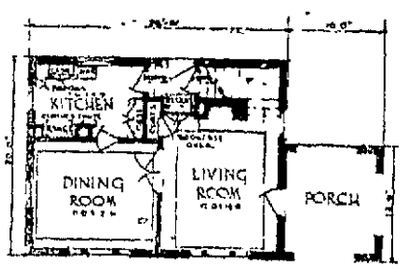
Don't begin your fine varnish floor finishes with a cheap undercoating. Shellac is a very valuable material for certain finishes on wood trim and furniture but it wears out quickly on the floor. Build up your floor varnish with two, or much better three coats of the best varnish you can get. Don't let the varnish chill. Keep it out of drafts—make a mighty effort to keep down the dust.

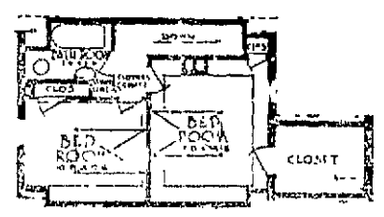
We have not said much about the workman—the painter. He is as necessary an element in this part of the work as he has been all through building operations. It is easy to distinguish between a good job and one that is poorly done. There are ways in which craftsmen can slight his part of the work as there are in everything else through the building. Your guarantee of satisfaction lies largely in having an experienced painter do the work.

BRICK HOME—FIVE ROOMS AND BATH



Copyright, 1923—Architects' Small House Service Bureau. Plan No. 3122





BRICK construction is steadily growing in favor still having regard to the relatively low cost of upkeep for the exterior walls, that is for once painting will be less than if wood were used. In some districts, the insurance rate for this type of building is lower. In certain localities city ordinances require only brick or other fire resisting material, to be used for dwellings within certain limits.

Brick gives an air of dignity and beauty, and gives small homes both the effect of substance and comfort. There are many brick bonds possible in solid brick construction to give delightful texture and variety to the exterior.

The brick house illustrated here provides five rooms and a porch. It can be placed comfortably on a lot between 45 and 50 feet.

The steep pitch to the roof, sharp gables close clipped eaves and dormers are characteristic of many English homes.

Study of the plan will show that every inch of floor space has been used to excellent advantage. Not only is there a full basement beneath the house, an usually large closet space above the porch, but there is also attic storage space.

The kitchen, though small, has been scientifically planned to "route" steps, thus saving labor and time. Light and air enters from two sides.

Both bedrooms have cross ventilation and cross light.

The cost to build this house, including wall decorations, should range between $7,500 and $9,000. In certain localities where costs are high, the higher figure quoted would be too low. In other localities the lowest figure quoted would be more than sufficient. The range of $1,500 is given to cover differences in the way the house is built, how thoroughly it is equipped and completed and in what district it is erected.

EDITOR'S NOTE: The plans for small homes are furnished by the Regional Bureau of the Architects' Small House Service Bureau of the United States, Inc., an organization made up of the representative practicing architects from leading architectural offices throughout the United States. This bureau is controlled by the American Institute of Architects and has the endorsement of the Department of Commerce, United States government. It is practically a non-profit making public service, and has as its purpose the furnishing of a very complete and dependable small house plan service at modest cost. For information regarding the home plans and specifications, address the Home Building Editor of this paper. The United States bureau maintains an information department to answer home builders' questions at no charge. Enclose stamped addressed envelope.

WHAT YOU MAY WANT TO KNOW ABOUT BUILDING

Questions addressed to the paper will be answered by the Architect's Small House Service Bureau of the United States, Inc., compiled by the American Institute of Architects and indorsed by the department of commerce, United States government. Inclose self-addressed, stamped envelope for reply.

Q—Is it possible to get any kind of a lock for the back door but a cylinder lock which will give us better protection than the ordinary bit key lock that can be picked by a skeleton key?

A—A rim or tumbler lock can be used in this place. It cannot be picked by any of the skeleton keys as well as a cylinder lock. You obtain the same protection by having the lock on your back door at the top of your front door. It can be done with a bolt in addition to the lock.

Q—Is there any reason why we can't plaster to make our bedrooms more livable in hot weather? In the house we are living in now these bedrooms are the hottest part of the house, whereas it seems to me they ought to be the coolest since there is more breeze higher up.

A—Excessive heat in the bedrooms comes through the attic. Therefore the attic should be insulated off from the rooms below by lathing and plastering on the ceiling joists. The second story floor joists over the attic space so that the rooms in the attic space so that the rooms in and out there.

A—Three inches thickness over all will ordinarily be sufficient for small home construction. It should be four inches in thickness in the fuel room.

Q—Specifications dealing with the shingles of my house say that the wooden shingles should not be more than eight inches in width. Looking around some of the houses now under construction I notice that shingles are used just as they come from the bundles, and some of them must be 12 or 14 inches in width. What is the use of splitting them? I should think that this would make the roof leak more easily.

A—Wooden shingle roofs begin to leak when the shingles curl. The wider they are the more the curling begins. This is the main reason for keeping them narrow. Make the conditions as to the specifications and allow every shingle if it is more than eight inches wide. Get good shingles, put them on right, and take reasonable care of them, and you will have a durable roof.

Q—We are going to use a warm air furnace. Is it necessary to have return pipes from all the rooms?

A—Theoretically, it is necessary to have a return pipe from every room into which a supply pipe is run. Practically a few of these pipes may be dispensed with. However, it is proper to say that if an insufficient number of returns is installed, this is done at the cost of extra fuel bills and less uniform distribution of heat.

complainant is compared with freight charges paid by the beehive coke industry, thereby unjustly burdening the complainant and the by-product coke industry generally and favoring its competitor.

"The rate structure of respondents which now exists and that from which the present rates have been evolved, where, therefore, not made upon any consideration of the just, reasonable and non-discriminatory rates to which the by-product industry is entitled, or of the effect of railroad transportation of coal and coke upon this industry, or of the counter-effect of this industry upon railroad transportation of coal and coke, and the important contribution to the latter by the by-product industry in the assurance of a continuous and regular revenue to the carriers, even during times and under conditions when neither form of fuel would move at all."

It is held that in determining rates and charges the carriers "have failed and now fail to give to complainant benefit of the lower cost of transportation service for complainant's by-product operations in comparison with the cost of perform service between the same points for the beehive coke industry and for shippers and consignees of bituminous coal for general purposes."

It is further contended that the respondents "have failed to extend to the rail traffic involved in the by-product coke industry in eastern Pennsylvania, and in particular to complainant, privileges and benefits which they and carriers generally have extended to other traffic under like circumstances and conditions and in such particular they have failed to give such traffic and to complainant the benefits which it is entitled of proportional rates, and also the benefits which should accrue to the through movement of a commodity from points of origin to points of destination and ultimate consumption where a change of form takes place enroute, the changed form being substantially the same as the original form, involving no greater risk in transit, transported in the same class of equipment, and requiring no different kind of service by respondents."

The system of rates that has been established has been developed, it is claimed, "without reference to or consideration of complainant's traffic, and in particular without reference to or consideration of the proper just, reasonable and non-discriminatory or preferential relation which should exist affecting transportation costs on beehive and by-product coke respectively.

"The result has been that respondents deny to complainant the benefit of facts and circumstances which justly entitle it to a basis of rates and charges affecting its by-product coke operations to enable it to compete reasonably and successfully with the beehive coke industry."

Averments of Complainant.

The averments of the complainant are: "That the rates on bituminous coal and coke . . . . are unjust and unreasonable, and unduly and unlawfully discriminate against and prejudice the complainant, the by-product industry in eastern Pennsylvania, ... and give an undue and unlawful preference and advantage to complainant's competitors producing, selling and shipping beehive coke and to traffic entering into the beehive coke industry . . . . particularly in territory lying north and west of the Westmoreland and Greensburg coal districts and the Connellsville Coke District; further, that the relation existing between said rates and charges on bituminous coal and coke . . is inconsistent with and contrary and opposed to the relation between other rates and charges now established and maintained by the respondents . . . . from points in the coal and coke, districts of western Pennsylvania to points north and west thereof.

"Under said other rates respondents transport in excess of 1.4 net tons of coal for a lo charge than they transport one net ton of coke between the same points, whereas, respondents' rates for the transportation of 1.1 net tons of coal are greater than for the transportation of one ton of coke between the same points. . . . Complainant avers that no conditions or circumstances exist to justify one relation between rates and charges . . . . from said districts in western Pennsylvania and a different and unduly prejudicial relation between rates on coal and coke moving from the same districts in western Pennsylvania to points north and west thereof."

The rates on coke from the Swedeland plant to points in eastern Pennsylvania are held to cause the carriers to discriminate against the complainant and by-product coke traffic from Swedeland and "give an undue and unlawful preference to the transportation of other coke, including beehive coke, between said points and other points in eastern Pennsylvania, and to shippers and consignees thereof."

It is declared that the respondents have "failed and refused to establish just, reasonable and non-discriminatory and non-preferential rules, regulations, practices and classifications applicable to and governing service to complainant's plant," and also failed "to extend practices and privileges . . . . which they extend to other shippers and consignees . . . ."

It is declared that the transportation of freight to and from the complainant's plant "affords respondents much greater revenue than they would earn if complainant's plant did not exist or were not in operation and the coke requirements at Swedeland and elsewhere in eastern Pennsylvania, now supplied by complainant, were supplied by beehive coke from the Connellsville and Latrobe coke districts. This is true whether there be considered the existing and excessive rates in and out of complainant's plant or rates to result from an adjustment of present tariffs to a fair, reasonable and non-discriminatory basis."

Relief Sought.

The prayer of the complainant is, therefore, that the Public Service Commission shall, "after notice and hearing as provided by law, find, determine and decree that the rates and charges made, demanded and exacted by respondents for service to complainant, and the rules, regulations, practices and classifications applicable to and governing said service are unjust, unreasonable, unduly and unlawfully discriminatory against and prejudicial to complainant, to traffic moving to and from the complainant's plant, to points in eastern Pennsylvania, and to producers, shippers, consignees and users of coke produced by by-product plants in eastern Pennsylvania, and that other rates for the transportation of coke in western Pennsylvania to points in eastern Pennsylvania are unduly and unlawfully preferential to competitors of complainant producing coke in beehive ovens, to traffic in beehive coke and particularly beehive coke moving from the coke producing districts in western Pennsylvania to Swedeland and other points in eastern Pennsylvania, and to producers, shippers and consignees of coke produced in beehive ovens in western Pennsylvania."

The complainant further prays that the commission "shall determine and prescribe the maximum, just, due, equal and reasonable rates and charges to be hereafter established, demanded, exacted, charged and collected for service by respondents to complainant and the just, due, equal reasonable and proper rules, regulations, practices and classifications, as affecting said rates and service, to be established, maintained and observed by respondents."

Comparison of Cost of Transportation Charges (a) on Beehive Coke from Connellsville Coke District to points in Eastern Pennsylvania and (b) on By-Product Coke delivered to same points from Complainant's Plant at Swedeland: All Assumed to come from Westmoreland Coal District.

(All rates on coke are per net ton; on coal are per 1.4 net tons)

GULBRANSEN
The Registering Piano

Real Music—"As You Like It"

DO your own playing! It's so much more fun than to have others do it for you!

To go to your Gulbransen—and actually play—gives you a real sense of accomplishment! It interests—satisfies! It is one of the most delightful experiences imaginable!

Delightful because Gulbransen music is so expressive! So full of feeling—so full of life—you take a personal pride in producing it.

Accenting, for instance. That's important! For in any piece you play there's a strain of "melody" you must pick out and accent properly, to give it a pleasing rendition.

But, where are the melody notes? In what part of the keyboard do they occur? With the ordinary player-piano that's a real problem. But by observing the Melody Indicator—a simple and convenient little patented guide—you know where the melody notes are, and just where to accent them, on the Gulbransen!

The Melody Indicator greatly simplifies correct playing. In combination with sensitive "pedal-touch" and Gulbransen Instruction Rolls, it is the thing that makes musicianly playing possible!

11 "Flat" Fur Pieces
(were to $79.50)
Now Marked At $12.75

THE USES to which you can put these furs are limited only by your own ingenuity. Each piece is soft and velvety — and of unquestioned good quality. But because they come in old fashioned "flat" styles, they are to be sacrificed at a really unheard of reduction.

Just 11 pieces in brown, taupe and black fox are available. Some can be remodeled into chokers for little extra cost—others are ready to be used for coat collars. And don't be mislead by their low price—each fur is first quality—and in splendid condition. You had better come early!

Three Skunk Collarettes-

which will match beautifully any coat in black or navy are also to be sacrificed. The fur is silky and lustrous—you have only to feel it to be convinced of its quality and value. The pieces originally $75 and $125 are to go for $19.75. The $165 piece is now $35.
